COURT RULES AGAINST CROWE

Alienists Permitted to Testify in Murder Case.

DEFENSE SCORES A POINT

State's Attorney Contended the Court Had No Right to Consider Insanity of Defendants Loeb and Leopold After They Had Pleaded Guilty. Decision of the Court and Day's Proceedings.

Chicago, July 31.—Defense scored a point at the hearing of the case against Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, slayers of young Robert Franks.

Justice Caverly overruled the objection of State's Attorney Crowe, who contended the court had no right to consider the insanity of the defendants after they had pleaded guilty.

Dr. William A. White of Washington, D. C., was called to the witness stand as the first to testify for the defense when the state's case was rested. Walter L. Lachar, a defense lawyer, started questioning him, but was immediately interrupted by Crowe.

The state's attorney said that the defense could not offer testimony showing insanity after having pleaded guilty. If the boys are insane, Crowe said, he would demand that the question of sanity be brought before a jury.

"If your honor, at the conclusion of testimony should sentence these boys to hang, in our judgment, the sentence would not be worth the paper it is written on," Crowe stated. "If the defense appealed to the supreme court the supreme court would set your sentence aside. The state would have no power to appeal while the defendant would have every chance to appeal the sentence."

"What is the defendant in this case trying to do?" Crowe shouted. "Are they trying to enter a plea of guilty, admitting that they murdered a child, and then attempting to enter a defense? Nothing could be more direct nor mandatory than the language of the law which I have read. The court must impanel a jury if the question of insanity is brought up."

Justice Caverly replied: "Suppose the boys were brought here charged with murder, without counsel, and the court appoints counsel and the accused pleaded guilty to murder. If the court felt that the boys were not competent to enter a plea of guilty, he would appoint alienists to determine their condition. How do I know that these boys are competent to plead guilty? When the defense in this case arrives at a point where insanity is shown, the court could and likely would direct withdrawal of the plea of guilty and order a jury trial."

Crowe shot back that there is no degree of insanity; either a man is wholly insane and therefore irresponsible, and sane and wholly responsible.

"I agree with you," the court said, "that this court has no right to pass on the sanity or insanity of these defendants, but let me explain myself. Under the laws of our state there are degrees of sentence on a murder charge. The court can sentence them to death, it can sentence them to life imprisonment, or it can sentence them to a penitentiary for any number of years not less than 14. To decide upon what sentence to give these defendants, I contend that I have the right to know their state of mind when the murder was committed. I have a right to know all of the mitigating circumstances."

The defense defended a position without precedent in this state, that "functional mental disease" was a proper plea in mitigation of punishment, even though the defendants had pleaded guilty as in this case.

Bonds Forfeited.

Cincinnati, July 31.—Bonds of 14 auto bus chauffeurs, charged with operating their machines without a permit from the state utilities commission, were forfeited when they failed to appear in traffic court. Judge Woeste ordered capias issued for their arrest and a new bond of $300.

Missing Child Located.

Cleveland, July 31.—Mrs. Margaret Blanchard on learning that her daughter, Dorothy May Blanchard, 5, was safe, said that she would not prosecute Mrs. Phoebe Woods, arrested in Buffalo, Mrs. Blanchard swore to a warrant charging Mrs. Woods with kidnapping after the latter disappeared with the child.

LABOR'S ATTITUDE

Decision to Be Reached Soon on La Follette Candidacy.

Washington, July 31.—A decision of far-reaching importance to the American labor movement and the La Follette independent candidacy will be reached soon by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor. Eleven members of the council will meet at Atlantic City Friday to decide whether the federation will go along with Robert M. La Follette or remain politically nonpartisan. Officials at national headquarters refused to speculate as to what will be done about La Follette, but there are three possible courses of action, they say. La Follette may be endorsed unqualifiedly; the presidential race may be ignored; or La Follette may be given indirect support as "acceptable."

BOYS STAGE RIOT AT REFORMATORY

Four Hundred Attack Eighty Colored Inmates.

SEVEN PERSONS IN HOSPITAL

Boys Wreck Dining Room, Drive Forty Guards Into the Yards and Release Participants of Recent Race Clash—Rioting Quelled When Police Reserves, Armed With Tear Bombs, Arrive.

Newark, N. J., July 31.—Five boy inmates and two guards were wounded in a series of disorders at the New Jersey reformatory at Rahway. Police reserves quelled the rioting.

The injured are being treated in the reformatory hospital. One of the guards is believed fatally shot, while two of the inmates are suffering from gunshot wounds. One of the boys was shot in the abdomen and another in the hip.

The trouble started as a protest against punishment of several small boys who participated in an incipient race riot Monday. The riot started in the dining room of the building, 400 white boys attacking 80 colored youths.

"Five hundred boys were in the dining room when dishes began to fly," Rev. Frank Moore, superintendent, said. "Tables were overturned and there seemed to be a general attack on the part of the white boys. After wrecking the dining room and driving the 40 guards into the yards, the rioters started for the main building, where we were keeping under guard the participants of the race riot of Monday night."

"The rioters seized wooden guns, used in drilling and started wielding them as weapons. They broke down the barriers and freed the imprisoned inmates of the Monday fight."

After telephoning for police, Rev. Moore said he attempted to placate the rioters. This was met by a volley of stones, clubs and other weapons. Several of the guards were struck by the flying missiles. Rev. Moore said he then gave the guards orders to fire one volley at the rioters. Two boys dropped, injured. Half a dozen others were less seriously hurt.

The boys were herded into a large room and Rev. Moore attempted to talk to them. The boys were milling angrily about the room when the Woodbridge police arrived equipped with tear bombs. At the sight of them the boys quieted and went back to their quarters.

KLANSMEN IN CLASH

Boston, July 31.—In a battle between 200 members of the Ku Klux Klan and 500 anti-klansmen at North Lancaster, Mass., one man was shot and fatally wounded, nearly a score injured and several automobiles wrecked. Edward F. Bird of Leonminster, said to be an anti-klansman, is in a hospital, possibly fatally wounded. The others are not seriously hurt.

A Klan meeting was being held in a large field near North Lancaster and a crowd collected. As the klansmen started leaving the field, witnesses said, sticks and stones began to fly and a gun was fired. It was this shot that wounded Bird. Police were unable to quell the fighting and assistance was called from Worcester, Fitchburg, Spencer, Leonminster and other towns.

FLIERS IN ORKNEYS

Americans Headed For Iceland on the Homeward Trip.

London, July 31.—The American round-the-world fliers arrived in Kirkwall, Orkney islands, after a 400-mile flight. The fliers settled on the waters of Houghton bay, off Kirkwall, without trouble. The United States cruiser Richmond was awaiting them. The flight was the first leg of the so-called sixth division of the world flight. The Americans hopped off at Brough, England. The next "hop" will take the aviators to Iceland.

The jump-off is regarded by many as the "last lap" of the Americans' around-the-world flight, although they will have to traverse the American continent, after crossing the Atlantic ocean from Greenland. The entire flight, owing to necessary diversions, is about 27,000 miles in distance. The airmen have accomplished approximately 20,000 miles, leaving 7,000 yet to be traveled.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Truck Invades Residence.

Cincinnati, July 31.—A 5-ton automobile truck made an unceremonious intrusion into the front room of the home of Mrs. Margaret Mayes, and rendered the driver of the truck, David Shaw, negro, unconscious. Mrs. Mayes barely escaped with her life as the truck knocked over stone pillars holding up the porch, and bumped itself into the room in which she was sitting.

Delinquents Soaked.

Cleveland, July 31.—Failure to make income tax returns last March has cost 20,000 residents of northeastern Ohio, including several thousand citizens of this city, approximately $200,000 in penalties, according to Charles Gilbert, chief deputy of internal revenue. Between 3,000 and 4,000 absent-minded income taxpayers are being haled into the revenue office monthly.

Curtis Trial Nearing End.

Canton, O., July 31.—The case of E. E. Curtis, former safety director, charged with bribery, will likely go to the jury today. George Tanner, a private detective of Akron, was arrested in the office of former Mayor C. C. Curtis, brother of the defendant, and charged with perjury and with being a suspicious person. He was a witness for the defense.

Embezzlement Alleged.

Akron, O., July 31.—Police are seeking Leland C. Powell, stock and bond broker of Akron, who has been missing for several days and who is charged with embezzlement of nearly $50,000 from his clients. Clients of Powell became alarmed several days ago when they visited his offices and found them closed. They appealed to the police prosecutor.

Counterfeiting Charged.

Cleveland, July 31.—A flood of spurious pennies flowing into local banks and business houses during recent weeks, traced to Toledo, resulted in the arrest there of Joseph Rokbecki, charged with counterfeiting. The arrest was made by a secret service agent. Plates for the stamping of the coins and a quantity of material were seized.

Marion's Budget.

Marion, O., July 31.—This city's budget needs for the next six months have been fixed by council at $143,660. Council, in order to live within its income, dispensed with the public library entirely, reduced the city engineering force to a minimum and cut down heavily on street lighting.

Killed in Runaway.

Upper Sandusky, O., July 31.—Clarence Moffett, 15, was killed when a team of horses became frightened and threw him from a manure spreader he was operating on a farm north of here.

Miner Killed.

St. Clairsville, O., July 31.—John Krockovich, 34, Maynard miner, was killed by a fall of stone in a mine here.

Kills Wife and Self.

Columbus, July 31.—John Leonard, 28, shot and killed his wife, Florence, 26, and then killed himself at their home here. Three children were made orphans by the double tragedy. Domestic trouble, police say, was the cause of the murder and suicide. Leonard and his wife had been separated for some time. She had brought suit for divorce.

SEES VIOLATION OF ARMS TREATY

British Object to Gun Elevation on Battleships.

SENDS PROTEST TO HUGHES

Navy to Resubmit to Congress Its Full Program for Modernization of the Older Battleships of the Navy, Including Elevation of Turret Guns. Would Have American Navy Up to Strength of British Fleet.

Washington, July 31.—The British government has made formal representations to the United States against elevation of guns on American battleships to increase their range of fire.

In the protest, Great Britain contended that such action by the United States would be a violation of the naval disarmament treaty signed at the Washington conference. State department officials declined to comment on the matter.

The question of gun elevation has been discussed for nearly two years. The controversy first started when the navy department secured an appropriation from congress to elevate American guns. The argument used by the navy was that such elevation was necessary to bring the American navy up to the fighting strength of the British navy.

Before the money could be expended, however, Great Britain made representations which denied the contention that elevation of guns on British battleships had been increased since the Washington conference.

The navy department is to resubmit to congress at the next session its full program for modernization of the older battleships of the American navy. That program includes elevation of turret guns to give them modern battle range. At no time has the navy department, despite a very extensive study by the general board of all the proceedings of the Washington conference and its committee and experts, conceded that the provisions of the treaty could fairly be interpreted to prohibit the modernization work it has repeatedly recommended to congress. It is known that the application of wording in the treaty to the proposal of the navy department to raise the gun elevations on older ships was fully considered by the navy general board before the original recommendation for a modernization board was made to congress.

FRENCH PROPOSAL BEFORE THE EXPERTS

Not Expected to Have Easy Sailing, Delegates Say.

London, July 31.—The allied experts are discussing the new French proposal, which carries concessions that may break the deadlock in the interallied conference.

One of the French delegates said he hoped the proposal would bring the allied delegates together on methods of launching the Dawes plan and at the same time reconcile the international bankers to the security for the Dawes plan to loan Germany. They said the proposal was France's final concession.

The French proposal is not expected to have easy sailing, as it carries conditions and reservations that may not be acceptable to the powers. The proposal contains three main points, the first of which seeks to calm British fears that a sham German default may be declared by providing for a board of arbitration which will make a declaration of default by the reparation commission much more difficult to obtain than at present. The second point provides for the establishment of machinery to handle defects which may develop in the working of the Dawes plan, particularly in relation to deliveries in kind. The third provides for guarantees that Germany will not maneuver out of payments in kind. It also enables France to make new agreements extending the terms for payments in kind beyond the provisions of the Versailles treaty date, which is 1930.

COUPLE SOUGHT

Forged Money Orders Cashed by — ton Merchants.

Dayton, O., July 31.—According to postal inspectors, local merchants have been victimized by a flood of forged postoffice money orders. The inspectors announced that they are looking for a man and woman suspected of passing the orders. The couple indorsed their names as "G. Howard" and "Mrs. A. Howard." They were registered at a local hotel, giving their address as Chicago, it was said. Investigation thus far has shown that at least 11 money orders have been cashed by merchants. Each order was for $20 and was tendered in payment for a small purchase. Most of the orders were passed last Friday and Saturday, reports show. It is believed more will be reported. According to postal officials, a book containing 200 money orders, including the serial numbers of those passed here, was stolen from a post-office at Valier, Ill., July 11.

Distributing Pheasants.

Columbus, July 31.—According to Dent O. Thompson, head of the state fish and game division, who recently returned from a visit of inspection, pheasants are thriving at the state game preserve at Wellington and are being sent out over the state at the rate of 1,000 to 1,500 a week. Mr. Thompson reported that in spite of the fact that many of the young birds were killed by the storm which ravaged the northern part of the state at the time of the Lorain disaster, there were 6,000 healthy birds at the farm ready for distribution.

AGAINST MOBILIZATION

Denver, July 31.—Governor William E. Sweet said, when asked directly what his stand would be on National Defense day, Sept. 12, said: "I do not propose to mobilize the national guard of Colorado for National Defense day, nor do I propose any participation of civilians in military affairs. I will be glad to co-operate with the president of the United States so far as it seems proper, but to mobilize the Colorado national guard at this time, following closely upon its demobilization from summer camp, would be sheer folly, and to ask civilians, especially farmers, to take part in Defense day programs during the busiest season of the year would be asking them to shoulder an undue burden."

Would Retire Speaks.

Columbus, July 31.—The Franklin county Republican organization has endorsed Rev. J. J. Tisdall for the nomination for congress. Leaders claim that the candidacy of General John C. Speaks, present incumbent, has caused dissatisfaction within the ranks and claim that a great number of voters have threatened that their vote in the November election would go to Lowry Sater, Democratic candidate, if Speaks is nominated. Speaks, however, says he is not worried and is confident of the nomination, having the indorsement of the Columbus Federation of Labor and a large sized block of the soldier vote, together with a strong personal following.

SHORT SPAN OF LIFE WAS ARTEMUS WARD'S

America's First Humorist Called Home Early.

April 26 was the ninetieth anniversary of the birth of America's first humorist, Charles Farrar Browne. "A short life and a merry one" describes the earthly sojourn of this early columnist, born in Waterford, Me., in 1834. He lived but 33 years, but in this time convulsed America and England by the quips generated by a mind as quaintly put together as were those of Shakespeare's clowns.

Browne was a newspaper humorist and lecturer. It was while conducting a column on a Cleveland newspaper that he invented his "Artemus Ward and His Wax Fingers." When his fabled showman became famous, Browne took for himself the name of his well-known character, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In the "fabulous fifties" and "storied sixties" he toured this country as a lyceum entertainer.

Ward's drollery and eccentric humor were exercised even up to the last few days of ebbing life. He had just been honored by membership in the famous Savage club. London was at his feet—and he was only thirty-three years old.

During those days when consumption was taking its toll, the candle of life burning lower and lower, one of the troubles of the nurses was to make the patient take his medicine. Among the prescriptions was one of extreme bitterness to which he greatly objected. Filled with concern, a friend, Tom Robertson, poured out a dose of the compound and held out the spoon.

"My dear Tom," said Artemus, protestingly, "I can't take that dreadful stuff."

"Come, come," said Robertson. "Take it, my dear fellow, just for my sake. You know I would do anything for you."

"Would you?" said Artemus, faintly grasping Tom's hand.

"I would indeed."

"Then you take it."

He died at Southampton, England, March 6, 1867.

Seitz says of him: "It remains a notable fact that no other American ever so impressed himself upon the life of London."

What more appropriate in closing this snatch of biography than a drollery—the way he closed his book of life? Among those thumbworn notebooks we find one in which is scrawled a quip which in its original serious form applies to his own short years and in its humorous paraphrase characterizes the genial, fun-loving, fun-creating man, Charles Farrar Browne, otherwise known as Artemus Ward, Showman.

History of Soft Drinks

There is an interesting story about how the first soft drinks happened to be made. Back in the days of the American Revolution a man named Townsend Speakman was running a little drug store in Philadelphia. He supplied medicines for Washington's army, and was pretty well known. One day a doctor asked him to fill a prescription of carbonated water. Speakman succeeded in compounding the concoction. The doctor's patient liked the new water. Soon one patient after another passed the word around and, before long, Speakman had lots of calls for the new medicine water.

But Speakman was a keen business man and conceived the idea of flavoring the medicine water with fruit juices to increase its popularity. The plan worked. Its popularity spread like wildfire. That was the beginning of the carbonated soft drink business.

The soft drink business has been growing ever since. Last year, for example, the people in the United States consumed 8,000,000,000 bottles of non-alcoholic beverages, an average of 75 bottles for every man, woman and child.—Progressive Grocer.

Common Knowledge

She had descended in wrath upon her husband as he stood at the stage door.

"What are you doing here?" she demanded.

It was up to him to think quickly, and he did.

"Hello, my dear," he greeted her mildly. "I heard you were coming down town and, wishing to see you, I came here—knowing this would be the first place you would look for me."—Judge.

Street Seeks Seclusion

Bond street, that fashionable London thoroughfare from which men's fashion dictates go forth, is likely to become even more exclusive. The merchants, tired of having busses and other common conveyances use the street, have started a movement to make the very pavement exclusive. They maintain the street is now so crowded with public vehicles that the rich will not shop there since they can not park their motors.

Industry Killing Fish

The salmon fishery of California is seriously threatened by the use of streams for power purposes and so eliminating the necessary spawning grounds of the fish. Of 158 young salmon, averaging one and one-half inches in length, run experimentally through a water turbine power wheel operating at a pressure of 80 pounds to the square inch, 49 were recovered alive.

Camel's Hair Cloth

Real camel's hair is used in making camel's hair cloth. It comes from the cooler sections of China, as the hair obtained from the camels in the warmer sections is neither fine nor abundant. At a certain season of the year camels shed their hair, which drops off in bunches, most frequently while the camels are asleep. When a caravan is on a trip there is always a special boy whose duty it is to gather up the shed hair in baskets. When a port is reached the hair is sorted and baled for export.

Relief for the Ears

Application of photography to sound by a London scientist has now made possible the elimination of ear-piercing noises in railway operation. Under the direction of Prof. A. H. Low, an extended series of tests made for the underground electric railways of London, has disclosed the principal sources of disturbing noises in subways, with the result that Londoners in the future will travel in comparative silence. The intensity of noises is measured by means of an ingenious device consisting of a trumpet to catch the sound, and arranged so as to cause a diaphragm to vibrate. This vibration operates a mirror, causing a beam of light to play on a sensitized film. The study of the plates makes possible the detection of the noises.

Oldest Varnish
So far as is known, the oldest varnish still in existence is that on the wooden mummy cases of Egypt. This is in some instances at least 2,500 years old. It is thought to be a solution of resin in some such essential oil as cedar.

Discovery of Oxygen
The American Chemical society says that Joseph Priestley, an Englishman who came to America in 1749, discovered not only oxygen, but also ammonia, hydrogen chloride, sulphur dioxide and nitrous oxide. In the course of his various manipulations of vapors he isolated chlorine, which is now extensively used in the arts and in the manufacture of military gases and as a cure for colds.

"Kansas" and "Arkansas"
There seems to be no connection between the words "Kansas" and "Arkansas," although both words are derived from the names of Indian tribes. "Kansas" is from the name of a tribe who called themselves "Kanze." The word is said to refer to the wind. "Arkansas" was the name of a tribe of Indians found within the borders of the state by the first settlers.

Didn't Wear Out Welcome
"I called at the Munnswells' today," said Snobb. "Stylish people they are; house splendidly furnished; received me very graciously and asked me to call again." "They did?" inquired Gum. "Why I always heard they were very exclusive. How did they entertain you?" "Oh, I didn't stop long," said Snobb. "Only called with a bill for groceries."

Earliest Manual Training
The earliest official recognition of manual training as given in Finland, were Nao Cygnaeus organized a plan for such work in primary schools in 1858, and where such instruction was made compulsory for certain pupils in 1896. Sweden soon after recognized the importance of such training and gave an impetus to the movement.

Winged Rod of Mercury
The curious-shaped wand that the god Mercury is always pictured as carrying is called a caduceus. It is a winged rod with serpents twisted about it. The wand is magical, according to ancient mythology; with it Mercury could give sleep to any human being. So Milton refers to it as Mercury's "opiate rod."

Early Canadian Industry
The first clock factory in Canada was established in the village of Cote des Neiges, about two miles west of Montreal. The machinery was driven by water power, supplied by a small stream fed by springs at the western base of Mount Royal. The proprietors of the factory were J. and W. Twiss.

Red and Black Used in This Chic Summer Dress

Hints About Fashions That Are Now in Vogue

At the moment the cape coat occupies a foremost position in the fashions of the season. It appears in many different versions from the stunning sport coat of plaids or two-toned blocked effects to the more elaborate models of satin, crepe or heavy ribbed bengaline.

Embroidery plays an important part in the decoration of coats and while white on black is perhaps the most popular color scheme, there are others quite as striking and a bit more exclusive.

Printed chiffons, particularly those that have a large floral design, are among the most popular of the summer materials. Surprisingly enough, they appear in the most formal of evening frocks as well as in dresses for afternoon wear. Some of the very newest of these evening frocks of flowered chiffon are combined with wide flounces of black chantilly lace, a combination that is extremely effective and "chic."

Since ribbons play such a large part in the scheme of things this season, a flat case of blue leather that is designed particularly to hold them will make a most acceptable gift. Inside the case are two large pieces of celluloid, notched to accommodate different widths of ribbons.

A fascinating little dress for a small girl is made of white voile with three bands of colored voile set in above the hem, and all joined together with fagoting. The colors used are lavender, pink, yellow and pings of the same three colors are used on collar and cuffs.

Almost invariably on coats of the formal type there is a touch of fur, used with great discretion but intensely effective and smart. White ermine appears on coats of black or dark blue, while beige ermine or furs in soft tones of bisque or brown are chosen for the coats of brighter shades. Green rosewood and powder blue are popular colors and in addition to fur there is often a narrow band of galoon, either metal or in a harmonizing color.

Dainty Powder Boxes Are Liked by Misses

Almost any girl who enjoys dancing and parties will appreciate the dainty powder and lipstick boxes of rose gold that are much used at this time. Some are plain, except for a banding of black or colored enamel, while others show chasing in simple and even elaborate patterns. This vanity is one of the accessories which add a little note of decoration to the smart suit or street frock sometimes worn to afternoon dances and even to the theater.

If she has not done so already, the summer girl will soon choose the perfume best suited to express her personality. The recent perfumes survey conducted by a large New York firm showed that American women preferred lilac to any other odor, but nothing was said about the young girl's favorite perfume. It may be that a dainty violet, rose or lavender will appeal, or the heavy but subtle narcissus, but nine chances out of ten, it will be wiser to sound the sweet recipient about her preference before trying to choose from the alluring odors now on the market.

Pest Attacks Pines

Ravages of the European sawfly threaten the complete defoliation of the pine trees of the United States. The pine nurseries and estates of New England and some of the North Atlantic states already have been attacked by the pest. The sawfly has been one of the greatest forest depredators in Europe.

HERRICK REFRIGERATORS

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective Insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

"PASS THE BUCK"

In an effort to determine the reason for the present low price of wool, the department of agriculture declares that clothing prices are too high. Every American citizen knew this several months ago, but was helpless. Every manufacturer knew it and knows it now and while they all admit the extortion they "pass the buck" by claiming the other fellow is responsible.

It is the same old argument, and the sad part of it is that the one who "kicks" is classed as a "radical" a "bolshvist" or a "communist." When the average citizen turns the searchlight on himself the remedy will be forthcoming and not until then. Meanwhile he is being played for a "gillie" and separated from his money by all kinds of people who do little thinking for themselves. We are a funny bunch, we human beings; that is, we appear to be if we have the nerve to stop and analyze ourselves.

True Brotherliness

Brotherliness also consists in being kind to people who are sensitive and diffident to the point of fidgetiness.

Chairman Failed to "Sell" the Lecturer

The torture is especially acute when you are lecturing on a program supported not by season tickets, but by voluntary subscriptions. Then you actually have to see yourself bought (and paid for, if the audience is more generous than most audiences are). I remember a men's church club which was run this way.

"Gentlemen," said the chairman, looking first at the audience and then at me, "I know you are going to have a rare treat this evening, for our guest is a speaker of the highest caliber. Now, gentlemen, you can't expect to get something for nothing. Our attraction this evening costs us—costs us—(business of fumbling in his pocket for a page of memoranda while I prayed God to strike me dead) costs us $390.00. There must be one thousand men here tonight. Now, if they'll give 40 cents apiece it will cover everything and leave $10 in the treasury for next time."

Ushers passed the hat. The chairman counted the receipts with a growing expression of disgust. He stepped forward and flung up his hand.

"Gentlemen," he exclaimed in a tone which would have wrung remorse from a tiger, "the returns are all in and they amounted to just $28.75! Less than three cents apiece!"

Though I knew I was worth less than half that sum, this knowledge did not diminish the pain of the situation. I looked vainly about for means of escape. Guests of honor were sitting between me and the only exit. I became aware that the chairman was speaking again or still. He was asking the audience if they seriously thought such a speaker as myself was worth $28.75. He was making the most of the rhetorical question, he was gloating over it.

I was about to yield to the impulse to rise and fell him with my chair when he paused. He was offering the audience the alternative of having the hat passed again immediately or giving more the following Sunday. Vociferously the audience chose the latter alternative. Probably most of them would not be there next Sunday. Neither, thank heaven, should I.

The chairman turned to me. At last he was finished. He was expecting a lecturer, whom he had tortured, to entertain a thousand men whom he had been chided, berated, insulted.—Gregory Mason in Scribner's Magazine.

Etiquette May Again

Be a College Course

Half a century or more ago a "finishing school for young ladies" always emphasized its course in "etiquette and deportment," a course which was quite as important in the parental and the pedagogical mind as the parlor French and piano lessons which were also taught. If the recommendations of a committee of the American Association of University Women, indorsed by seventy-two of seventy-five deans of women's colleges, are adopted, "etiquette and deportment" will make its appearance in the curricula of the higher institutions of learning, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

It seems that the committee has been distressed by the social conduct of some college girls and recent graduates. The committee believes college women should be taught that "accepted conventions of society" cannot be flaunted without something painful happening to the social order, and therefore they would introduce not a "mere course of etiquette but a course on the behavior of well-bred women."

Rat Disappeared

Mrs. D. L. Lasch, in the office of G. T. Leake, chief of the railway mail service, "has a good reputation for truth and veracity," as character witnesses say of the defendant. But other inhabitants of the third floor of the Federal building have been wondering, since she related this little domestic happening Monday morning.

This is the story, as told: The Lasch family has a large—a very large—St. Bernard dog. A rat—also well grown—was discovered in the Lasch garage the other day. Alarmed, he fled for the door, the Lasch family in pursuit.

The dog, loping up with open mouth to join in the excitement, confronted him.

"And the rat jumped right down the dog's throat—and the dog couldn't imagine where he'd disappeared to, and rushed madly around trying to find him," was her triumphant conclusion.—Houston Post.

Sweet Potato Sirup

A method for the commercial manufacture of sweet potato sirup, based on laboratory and plant experimental work, has been developed by the bureau of chemistry, according to a bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. From the standpoint of quality this sirup has possibilities for use as a table sirup, for cooking purposes and in the manufacture of colored and short grain candies. For baking purposes it might find a use in dark products, such as ginger snaps. It also has properties which make it suitable for use in blending with other sirup to prevent crystallization. The commercial possibilities of sweet potato sirup are limited by the high cost of manufacture under the present method.

FIELD DAY

Big Meet Will be Held in Kirk's Grove, New Holland.

A big field day will be staged at Kirk's grove, New Holland, on Friday, August 8, under auspices of men's organizations of the Church of Christ, as assisted by auxiliary units.

The Ladies' Aid of the church will have charge of the fish fry.

There will be a baseball game at 10 a. m. between the New Holland Giants and some strong team. A series of athletic events will be held during the afternoon.

A balloon ascension during the afternoon will be another event of interest.

MISSIONARIES TO CHINA.

Rev. and Mrs. Charles V. Reeder and children, Mary Ruth and David A. Reeder, left Tuesday on their return to China. They will take passage on the steamer, President Lincoln, at San Francisco, California, on their seven thousand mile journey across the Pacific. They will have the pleasure of getting off the boat one day at Honolulu, Sandwich Islands and the next stop will be at Shanghai where they will take a boat up to the Yellow Sea to Tsing Tau and thence will go by rail to Weisain, Shantung, province of China, where Rev. Reeder will take up his work as a Presbyterian missionary.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. O. S. Mowery of Tarlton, in honor of Miss Mildred Reichelderfer, Thursday, July 24. There were ninety guests present for the occasion. The house was beautifully decorated with sweet peas, gladioli and bergamot. The color scheme was white and pink throat in including decorations, contests and refreshments as far as possible. The program was conducted by Virginia Mowery which consisted of a nice address by Mrs. I. Wiley of Tarlton, piano solo, Winona Lanman; vocal solo, Mrs. Helen Sprouse, of Mannington, West Virginia, accompanied by Miss Gift Macklin; vocal solo, Miss Florence Hedges, accompanied by Winona Lanman; reading, Miss Maude Hedges which was very appropriate for the occasion; piano solo, Miss Jeanette Strous. A contest conducted by Mrs. Fanny Macklin consisting of fourteen young ladies each one receiving a pink and white ribbon with a wish attached drawn from a large basket of gladioli. Miss Florence Hedges received the one announcing the date of the wedding August 14, at 6 o'clock p. m. At the conclusion of the program Miss Ella Mae Spangler appeared, rang the door bell presented a telegram announcing a number of express packages having arrived for the bride-to-be and to be delivered to her. Refreshments of brick ice cream, pink and white angel food cake, homemade candy, both cake and candy, pink and white, peanuts and ice tea were served. The guests were waited upon by Misses Alice Hedges, Margaret Williamson, Winona Lanman, Evelyn Reichelderfer, Elsie Spangler and Virginia Mowery. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. Clara Macklin, Ada Aldenderfer, Hazel Ketterman, Ona Waliser and Flo Friece. As the sun was lowering and nearing the western horizon the guests departed wishing the bride-elect and hosts and assistants many more happy returns of the day and congratulations in advance.

DEATH OF INFANT.

Paint Defies Fire

Lead, zinc and oil paints that will not sustain a blaze and will prevent a fire from spreading have been developed by paint chemists. Paints that actually possess these properties, fire retarding to such an extent that a small fire will burn out without serious injury to paint or property, are made in all colors. They resist sea fog, salt air and all climate influences, and cost no more than ordinary paint.

To Save Girdled Tree

A tree the bark of which has been cut all around is sure to die unless a very delicate operation is performed on it. Skillful nurserymen have found that it is possible to graft a twig, or a number of twigs, into the bark, above and below the wound, and that the sap will circulate through these twigs and carry nourishment to the tree.

Really Not His Fault

Here was son again asking for another check! Every month he spent at college was costing father more and more money. "I had no idea," father said sternly, as he reached for his checkbook, "that an education cost so much." "Oh, its terribly high, father," was the reply. "And you know I'm one of those who studies the least!"

CORN MASH

Officers Find 250 Gallons and Yeast Mixed With Barley.

Apparently someone was preparing for a big supply of corn liquor for the Waterloo community, in view of the find made near that village Tuesday afternoon by Sheriff Lewis, Deputy Borton and Deputy Howard S. Irwin, from Pickaway county, who uncovered a wooden tank from its hiding place under a pile of brush and brought to light some 250 gallons of corn mash, as well as some ten pounds of yeast mixed with barley and other grain.

The find was made on the Persinger land, title of which is now vested in the Ohio Wesleyan university of Delaware, Ohio.

No arrests were made but further investigation was under way for the purpose of ascertaining if the owner of the mash could be found, and if the still for which the big supply of the "raw material" was intended could be unearthed.

It is believed that if the still could be located it would prove to be one of the largest ever found in this part of Ohio.

The mash was destroyed except an amount sufficient to be used as evidence in case an arrest is made.—Washington C. H. Herald.

CHICKEN FEED

Milk Will Help More Than Anything Else to Aid in Production.

With farm labor hard to get and harder to keep, poultrymen in Ohio can profitably let the chickens feed themselves from a hopper.

"Put the grain, mash, oyster shells, water and anything else you feed in hoppers, keep them filled and don't worry," writes G. S. Vickers, poultry extension specialist at the Ohio State university, in a monthly letter to 1100 farm flock owners who are keeping records in cooperation with the university.

"Hopper-feeding is one labor-saver," Mr. Vickers continues. "It gives good results. But be sure the hoppers are in cool, shady places and protected from rain so that no wet, moldy feed is before the chickens."

"Milk is the one article of feed that will help more than any others to keep your birds in production."

"Of course, hens will continue to produce in the summer just so long as they continue to eat large amount of mash. At this time many birds cease to eat enough to keep them in production. Some means of keeping up the mash consumption must be used. The two most popular methods are (1) confinement until noon with little or no grain, and (2) feeding of moist mash, usually at noon."

"Last year we had one flock owner who fed no mash to his flock all year, probably because he doubted its value. His average production for the year 49 eggs a hen. His profit was minus to the tune of 9 cents a bird."

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

AMUSEMENTS

Glenn Hunter, the famous young stage star, made his debut as a star in Paramount pictures under the most favorable auspices in "West of the Water Tower" at the Met theater last night. Both the star and picture screen entertainment which will be caught on finely, the result being talked about for many a day as the best seen here in two years.

The story of "West of the Water Tower" was written by Homer Croy. The novel appeared early this year and scored a literary sensation. It is a story which deals with small town folks in a masterly manner. Mr. Hunter, as Guy Plummer, son of a rigidly orthodox minister portrayed by Ernest Torrence, meets and loves Bee Chew, played by May McAvoy, daughter of a wealthy atheist, the latter role being in the capable hands of George Fawcett. The young couple are secretly wed and this incident provokes a near tragedy which has its influence on many lives. But happiness comes at last after a series of breath-taking sequences, all of which will thrill even the most blasé picture fan.

The picture is one that will live long in the memory of all who see it. Zasu Pitts featured as the other girl in the story, is admirable as are also all in the cast. Paramount is to be felicitated upon the beauty and charm of this delightful photoplay.

Watch Responds to the Personal Touch

Of all mechanical devices we use, a watch comes nearest to having life, senses and feeling. It reacts to cold and heat, dampness and dry air, recognizes good treatment from bad; in fact, it is as sensitive to the way it is cared for as a pet dog would be, says Popular Science Monthly. A watch even has temperament that it acquires rapidly according to the temperament of its wearer. If two persons were to exchange watches that had been keeping perfect time, the watches would proceed to get out of order quickly.

A watch is the most delicate and complex mechanism of daily use. It has 211 parts, some so small that they are just about visible to the unaided eye. A break of maladjustment of any of these parts is sufficient to mar its utility as a timepiece. To make a watch requires about 4,000 distinct operations, involving a year's work. Part of the mechanism strikes 157,000-000 blows a year, while the balance wheel revolves a distance of 4,800 miles. No other piece of machinery known is subjected to such use. Yet a good watch will keep perfect time through two or three generations.

Once your watch has been regulated to fit your gait, it will require very little attention. It should be oiled once a year, protected from dust, dampness and sudden jolts, and wound every 24 hours at exactly the same time to the minute. With this slight amount of care even a cheap watch should last for years.

Soy Beans Superior for Fattening Pigs

Crop Makes Good Hogging Combination With Corn.

High-yielding soy beans of such seed varieties as Manchu have an assured place in fall finishing of fattening pigs, in the light of recent tests at Iowa State college. The leafy varieties, such as are used for hay or silage, are not as well adapted to hog forage as such crops as alfalfa, clover or rape, these tests indicate. Common farm practice, particularly in hogging down corn, would support this view.

Soy beans make a strong combination with corn for hogging down if a mineral mixture, such as wood ashes (or limestone), acid phosphate (or bone-meal) and salt, is used. In the Iowa tests the pigs, weighing about 120 pounds at the start, averaged in gain 1.45 pounds daily till they went to market, when fed corn, tankage and minerals (all self-fed) on pasture of Manchu soy beans; and they ate only 345 pounds for each 100 pounds gain in weight. The mineral mixture was made from 40 pounds spent bone black, 40 pounds limestone and 20 pounds salt.

Soy beans for forage did not prove as efficient as rape for pigs in these Iowa tests. Soy bean hay varieties made a poor economical showing. Soy beans do not have as long a growing season, are not as palatable and are more easily killed by frost as compared with clover, alfalfa or Dwarf Essex rape. These last-named forages fit in best for spring and mid-summer hog pasture, while a good seed variety of soy beans fills the need for fall finishing, balancing up the corn economically when minerals are fed in addition.

Silo Is Cheap and Best

Means of Providing Feed

The silo is the best and cheapest means of providing succulent feed not only for winter, but as a supplement to short pastures during the long, dry summer months, according to the Missouri College of Agriculture, which states in a recent bulletin:

It is the cheapest farm building that can be erected.

It will house feed at lower cost per pound than hay or roughage can be protected from the weather by barn or hay mow.

It increases the producing capacity of the farm at least 10 per cent and will often increase its stock-carrying capacity 25 per cent.

It is the cheapest and most effective method of storing.

It is the cheapest place to store the corn crop, and, in fact, one of the silo's greatest advantages is the possibility it affords of utilizing all of the corn crop. An acre of corn can be placed in the silo at a cost not exceeding that of shocking, husking, grinding and shredding and will preserve more nutrients and will produce more milk per acre than any other system of handling the crop.

It saves a third of the value of the corn crop that is otherwise largely wasted.

Cutworms Destroyed by

Poisoning With Mixture

Cutworms in gardens can be destroyed by poisoning them with poisoned bran mash. This material is prepared in small quantities for garden use by thoroughly mixing one ounce of paris green or white arsenic with one pound of bran. To this is added three ounces of syrup, one and one-half pints of water, and one-fourth of an orange which is chopped up into small bits. As soon as the cutworms appear, sow or scatter this poison bran mash thinly along the rows or around the plants to be protected. Since cutworms generally feed at night, the best results will be had by putting this material out in the evening.

FARM FACTS

Trouble travels in a circle and may hit you if you start it.

Plant lice are poor snuff-takers. Three per cent nicotine dust is death to them.

Time ever speeds onward. The minute you waste today is the minute you lose tomorrow.

Often a little shrubbery and some flower seeds make a homely place into a homelike place—and there's a big difference.

The planting of sweet clover in the cornfield at the time of last cultivation is likely, during a normal season, to give a successful pasture the following year.

Cull the poultry flock early and get a money return from the culls before they run up expense for their feed. Profits in poultry now depend mainly on low cost of production.

Only plants of the grass family are injured by chinch bugs. There is no variety of corn but what is attacked. Such crops as clovers, alfalfa, soy beans, cowpeas, beans, peas, potatoes, rape, and so on, are either entirely or practically immune from this pest.

Lesson for August 3

THE FIRST DISCIPLES OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—John 1:35-51.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Jesus saith unto him, Follow me."—John 1:43.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Calls Four Followers.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' First Followers.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Means to Follow Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Winning Others to Christ.

Through the testimony of John the Baptist, his disciples were pointed to Jesus. This same testimony he gave the previous day, but he was not ashamed to repeat his sermon. His theme was the Lamb of God, the sin-bearer of the world.

I. Two of John's Disciples Follow Jesus (vv. 35-37).

As a result of the Baptist's testimony two of his disciples left him and followed Jesus. One of these disciples was Andrew (v. 40), and presumably the other was John. When the Baptist pointed out Jesus as the Lamb of God, the long-expected Messiah, these disciples sought further acquaintance with Jesus. In view of John's request, they looked upon the Lord. This look was sufficient to induce them to follow Jesus. They believed.

II. The Two Disciples Abiding With Jesus (vv. 38, 39).

1. Jesus' Question (v. 38). When Jesus saw the disciples following He most kindly inquired as to their object.

2. The Disciples' Reply (v. 39). They answered his question by inquiring as to His dwelling place. Their reply showed their desire to go apart privately where they could disclose their hearts to Him. Knowing their hearts, He invited them to His place of abode.

III. The Disciples Bringing Others to Jesus (vv. 40).

The very genius of Christianity is self-propagation. The usual method is to begin with those nearest us—home folks and relatives—and pass out to ever-widening circles. The disciples who were with Jesus in blessed fellowship go at once to tell others of the priceless treasure they have found.

1. Andrew Brings Peter (vv. 40-42). This is a beautiful sight of brotherly affection expressing itself in bringing another to Christ. The best place to begin our testimony for Christ is among our kinsfolk (Luke 8:30). This was a great piece of work for Andrew, for Peter became one of the pillars of the church of God.

2. Philip Bringing Nathaniel (vv. 43-46). Christ found Philip the following day as he would go forth into Galilee. Philip followed Him in response to a personal invitation. As soon as Christ found Philip, Philip found Nathaniel and witnessed to him concerning the messiahship of Jesus. He said unto him, "We have found Him, of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth" (v. 45). Nathaniel was somewhat skeptical, but he was honest. Philip had the wisdom not to argue with him, but brought him to Jesus. The one who is honest when brought into the presence of Jesus will soon have all doubts removed (John 7:27).

IV. Nathaniel, Seeing and Hearing Jesus, Testifies to His Divinity (vv. 47-51).

As soon as Nathaniel saw and heard Jesus all his doubts rolled away. He who acts upon the light given shall see greater things (vv. 50, 51). Angels ascending and descending upon the Son of Man with the open heavens, shows that Jesus Christ is the means of communication between earth and heaven (Heb. 10:19, 20; Eph. 2:18; Gen. 28:12).

This narrative concerning the experiences of the first disciples exhibits the following stages of Christian experiences:

1. Hearing About Jesus (v. 36). How important it is that the minister and teacher have a proper conception of Jesus as the sacrificial Lamb, the sin-bearer of the world.

2. Looking Upon Jesus (v. 36). It is necessary that the sinner definitely fix his attention upon Jesus.

3. Following Jesus (v. 37). It is not enough to merely look upon Him. There must be definite efforts to follow after, to inquire of Him.

4. Abiding With Jesus (v. 39). Those who earnestly look upon Jesus and inquire after Him He welcomes into blessed fellowship.

5. Witnessing for Jesus (vv. 41, 45). The first thing the one does who has come to Jesus is to begin to witness for Him.

6. Bringing Others to Jesus. The chief delight of the one who has come to know Jesus by a personal experience is to bring others to Him.

Success

"First of all," said President Garfield when a boy, "I must make myself a man; if I do not succeed in that I can succeed in nothing."

Early Locomotive Did Not Operate in Rain

Nearly all the great inventions and discoveries which have made modern life so wonderful and at the same time so strenuous have been produced within the last century. A huge step forward was made, something about a century ago, when the steam engine was adapted to haul trains of "wagons" on railroads. A copy of the Philadelphia Chronicle of that period contains this unique advertisement: Notice—The locomotive engine (built by Mr. W. Baldwin of this city) will depart daily when weather is fair with a train of passengers; on rainy days horses will be attached. This engine, "built by Mr. Baldwin," was the beginning of the great Baldwin locomotive works, which is now one of the biggest things of the kind in the world. Mr. Baldwin made the astonishing boast that his original engine would "draw 30 tons on a level road." Now a single freight car will hold twice that much.

MACK PARRETT

The Point of View

"The finest sight in the world to-day," says the Utica Observer-Dispatch, "is the mile after mile of cozy, warm-lighted houses." It is a fine sight, though we object to the ranking system in fine sights. It is a fine sight to the motorist, driving along on a chilly evening. The lights go up in the houses that line the road, and he says, "Ah, these homes of happy people!" And somebody about to draw the shades in one of the houses looks out at the speeding motorist and says yearningly, "Pretty soft to be able to dash around the country anywhere you like."—F. P. A. in New York World.

Keeps Bristles Hard

After washing hair brushes in soda and water they should be held under a cold-water faucet. This hardens the bristles and makes them last much longer than if they were rinsed in warm water.

Training the Child

Train children to virtue, habituate them to industry, activity and spirit. Make them consider every vice as shameful and unmanly. Fire them with ambition to be useful. Make them disdain to be destitute of any useful knowledge. Fix their ambition upon great and solid objects, and their contempt upon little, frivolous, and useless ones.—John Adams.

JUDGE NOT THE OTHER FELLOW

By FLORENCE D. WHALIN

His shoes were unshined, his clothes unbrushed, he needed a shave, and his method of reading his newspaper was most slovenly. Anne Nelson watched him from across the aisle in the train. Her own fingers were opening and closing spasmodically. It was very evident that the man was searching for some elusive item, but instead of turning the pages neatly he jumbled and ruffled the sheets.

Anne turned to the window. She had wanted to rush across and take that unshapely mass from him, smooth it out, set him up straight and—box his ears!

Distracted by the rattling, crashing of the paper, she turned and faced him indignantly. The man in the seat ahead of her looked ugly enough to have demanded a fight. Everyone was growing exasperated, yet not one could have told, in that second, why the man so irritated them all.

Unmindful of the eyes of the passengers riveted on him, the slovenly one gave up hunting and proceeded to crush the newspaper between his large and grimy hands. Now it was a ball, ragged, torn-edged and dirty finger marked all over. In mind, Anne Nelson was helping him to throw the unshapely roll into the corner at his feet (and this he later did). And then—if he had attempted to spit—but he didn't. He just looked up with two of the bluest, gentlest eyes you ever saw.

The passengers sank back, overcome.

He smiled. He looked confidentially at Anne, sitting there watching everything he did.

"Nervous this morning?" he ventured.

He paid no attention to her, nor to the others now intent on no other business except that of studying him. He took off his hat, not like he had handled the paper, but with a touch of reverence. Under that battered felt there was a crown of jet-black hair, smooth to the point of painfulness.

What was his story?

There was a silence disturbed only by the click-click as the train crossed a switch.

"You see," he said, addressing himself to Anne, "the little girl said she'd put some word in the paper for me." The lines of his throat convulsed as though a sob was going through.

"Didn't find it," he said, slowly. Anne was sure that his eyes blinked away a tear.

"Just came out of the mines. Little girl's sick—or was." Leaving the passengers at the end of his words with a lump forming in their throats.

Anne Nelson got up. She went over and sat down beside him. From all directions came offers in the form of newspapers. These Anne declined as she stooped and picked up the solid mass. No longer was the man cheap, and slovenly, but rough—just unpolished by continual hard work. Down in the mines—away from the world!

Across her knee the papers soon lay in a pile, the pages numerically arranged. Side by side two pairs of anxious eyes scanned the news.

"Pneumonia," he offered.

Now Anne was excitedly holding up a corner of the mutilated paper. "Come home, Beth," she read to him.

He shook his head. "Her name's Abigail. Pretty name, don't you think? We always called her 'Pettie' till her mother went away. Mother always said that Abigail meant, 'my father's joy.'" He was wondrously happy for a moment. "Father's joy," he was repeating, softly.

"How old is she?" the maiden lady asked, adjusting her glasses and peering critically into the blue eyes that in their clarity excused his clothes. He might have been a doctor if one had judged him by his eyes, and the high forehead topped by that hair.

"Twenty-two," briefly.

"Married?" Miss Grundy couldn't resist trying again.

"Oh, yes. Fine sort of a lad," he told her, turning straight about. "H'm." At least she sanctioned the marriage.

In another minute he was back tearing almost savagely at the paper. It seemed it must be there—the news he sought.

Anne sat helpless.

The train gave out its shrill call that announced the nearing of a station. There came a jerk-jerk, as the train slowed down.

"Paper—latest edition!" The entering newsboy yelled lustily.

Anne paid for one from her own lean purse. The boy sold twenty where heretofore that same train load had snubbed him.

Rattle-rattle—and then, a dozen voices clamoring to be heard first, read:

"Danger from pneumonia past. Bouncing baby boy; nine pounds. Abigail." And in parentheses ("Father's joy.")

Gun Fire Doesn't Kill Fish

That fish, contrary to popular superstition, are not frightened or killed by heavy gunfire, is reported by an observer for the California fish and game commission, who was on the United States battleship Idaho in fleet battle practice off the California coast. The heaviest guns of the fleet were fired at intervals for hours and over a large area of the ocean, yet during the thick of the firing no fish were seen to jump from the water as frightened fish do, nor was a single dead fish found afterwards.

It is explained that the vibrations of the air produced by sound above water are not transmitted to the water to any appreciable extent. Severe shocks under water, such as those due to mine explosions, kill fish, but they are apparently little affected by detonations above the surface.

Fat Massaged Away Day--By--Day With New Flexible Girdle

Instantly makes you look inches thinner and years younger! Gives you with comfort Fashion's straight boyish lines. Massages away fat from waist and hips while you walk, sit, work or play—yet does it so gently you hardly feel it.

The moment you put on this wonderful new corset—known as the Madame X Reducing Girdle—the bulky fat on waist, hips and thighs seem to vanish, the waistline lengthens and your body becomes erect, graceful, youthfully slender! And then—with every step you make, and every breath you take, with every little motion, this new kind of girdle gently massages away the disfiguring useless fat—and you look and feel years younger!

Worn in place of Stiff Corset

The Madame X Reducing Girdle is made of the most resilient Para Rubber—especially designed for reducing purposes. Worn over the undergarment—and has garters attached. The special cut-away front insures perfect comfort while you sit, work or play. And the special back lacing makes it easy to adjust as you become more slender.

It is so constructed that it touches and gently massages the entire surface of abdomen, waist hips and thighs as you walk, climb stairs, riding or during any kind of exercise. Every movement you make, even your natural breathing, is met by this live rubber girdle, which gently massages away the fat—without any extra exertion on your part. women often lose from one to three inches from waist and hips the very first week.

You must see this remarkable girdle to appreciate it. Come in today and try it on. You won't want to take it off! Its low price is another pleasant surprise!

OLD THINGS VALUED FOR NEW PURPOSES

Potentialities Developed by Each Generation.

How many things are used? Nobody knows.

Things are accumulating so fast in the United States that there can no longer be any record of their number or use, says the national foreign trade council. Each generation has new uses for old things.

The United States war supplies catalogue for the last year contained 120,000 separate items, involving millions of things and billions of values. One of these was coconut shells.

Coconuts were originally used for food by natives of tropical countries, and by monkeys to hurl at unwary visitors. Later a hundred million pounds yearly came to be imported into the United States, for a half dozen food uses. Then the United States army used coconut shells to make absorbent charcoal for gas masks.

Cotton is a thing, a flower, a nothing. One hundred and thirty years ago it was maintained in the United States congress that it is a non-productive plant for Americans. In this war catalogue of 120,000 items cotton played a chief role. Thousands of factories were kept busy using cotton to make underwear, tents, sheets, socks, tire materials, smokeless powder, hospital absorbent cotton, twine, haversacks.

There are 200 listed articles made of cotton by American factories. There are probably 1,000 different uses of cotton.

Silk was once limited in its uses. Today there are 125 common uses and kinds of natural and artificial silk.

Wood once had a few primary uses, for the making of spears or canoes or as fire wood, then for houses. Today there are listed 108 uses of wood. Under the word fiber, without respect to kind, there are ninety-one classes and kinds, ranging from shoestrings to plumes.

The word oil suggests a few uses, such as lubricating, illuminating or casting oil. There are 136 chief kinds of oil, from Chinese tung to rosemary. There are seventy general uses and kinds of steel, from corset ribs to ships, with an uncountable variation of uses.

Whence do they come, all these things? Nobody knows. It is estimated they come from 139 different countries or ports. They may come from the air, the latest source of nitrates. In the United States alone 300,000 industrial plants use $40,000,000,000 worth of worldwide materials to make things, for American comfort and convenience, or to resell abroad. What are things worth? Nobody knows. A rough estimate of the wealth of nations varies from $1,000,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000,000.

What are things? Everybody knows and nobody can tell. The word thing is one of the most common in the speech of many peoples. There are 1,050 important references to it in the Bible. One standard dictionary uses seven and one-half columns of fine type to try to define the word thing. It uses eighteen main distinctions of meaning and dozens of subdivisions.

The substance of these distinctions is that a thing is a thing, and that there are a lot of them.

Found Petrified Egg

A schoolboy playing in the sagebrush a few miles from Kuna recently picked up what is believed to be a petrified egg. Speculation is now rife as to whether it is that of a dinosaur and similar to those found some time ago in the desert of Gobi, Mongolia, says an Associated Press dispatch from Boise, Idaho.

In size the Idaho specimen is four and thirteen-sixteenths inches long and three and nine-sixteenths inches in diameter. The outer surface is dark ochre in color, the inside a dirty lemon, and it shows complete mineral replacement.

Some time ago the remains of a five-footed horse were discovered near Homedale, and once the skull of a rhinoceros was found imbedded at the head of Picket Pin creek, near Idaho City.

Fishdog Something New

Dogfish aren't so scarce, but who ever heard of a fishdog, asks the Boston Globe, which proceeds to relate than Capt. Russell N. Pernette, Cobosseecontee guide, owns one and her name is Echo. She is a pointer, and points fish as well as game. Echo goes fishing for herself, too. She wades into the water until it is half up to her body, stands still, and when a perch or sunfish comes along, snaps it up in a jiffy. She uses no bait and her fish never gets away. Echo is getting along in years, but clever dog that she is, she's paying the price of seeking her pleasure in an unnatural environment. She's getting all "done up with the rheumatiz" and has to do all her fishing now when her master isn't looking.

Gabe's Opinion

"My least boy, Bearcat, was fooling around the well tuther day and fell in," at the crossroads store, related Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "I pulled him out after a spell, and no pertickler harm was did."

"No, but 'twuz a good thing you got him out," replied Gabe Gosnell from over beyond Mount Piggy. "Boys like him make powerful poor soup."—Kansas City Star.

DOGS ARE TRAINED TO GUIDE THE BLIND

Experts Find Female More
Reliable Than the Male.

Potsdam, Germany.—In this historic city, where once Frederick the Great, lover of animals, erected burial mounds for his favorite greyhounds directly outside Sans Souci castle, there has been established a national training school for a type of dog conspicuous for the Red Cross insignia carried on his harness—the guide dog for blind soldiers.

Infinite patience must be exercised by the two trainers in charge to prepare the dogs for their task. Those selected are almost invariably female shepherds. It has been found that female dogs are the only dependable ones. Males are apt to forget their duties when they see a good chance for a fight. With the female the maternal instinct, the feeling of caring affectionately for the blind master, is uppermost.

Whip Is Never Applied.

Ruecker and Wecherling, the two trainers of the Potsdam kennel, put the dogs through a rigid course of training in which, however, the whip is never applied. The dog must learn to walk slowly, to obey the master's every word, to fetch things for him when desired, not only to avoid the holes and projections and ditches dangerous to itself, but also to pull the master over far enough for him to avoid danger.

Supposing, for instance, there is a projecting mail box. It is no hindrance to the dog, but the animal must be taught that its master should be so led as to avoid running into it. These dogs must also learn to gauge the speed of traffic so as to indicate to their master whether it is safe to cross the street.

When the time has come for the dog to pass its final examination the trainer harnesses the dog and bids it lead its teacher, whose eyes are tied for the purpose, through Potsdam. The trainer can then tell whether the dog has mastered the technique of leading.

Psychology Is Great Factor.

Next the prospective master is sent for. All blind persons who desire a guide dog must take up residence in the training school for a period of six weeks, so that master and dog may get used to each other. Not always is the dog first selected for a particular blind man the proper one for that person. Psychological factors play a great role in this matter. During the six weeks' trial period, the shepherd dog remains at the prospective master's side day and night.

Few persons perhaps realize that the task for a dog of acting as guide to a blind man is a nerve-racking one. The Potsdam trainers figure that no guide dog lasts longer than four or five years. After that it is a nervous wreck. There have been numerous cases on record of such dogs going crazy from actual nervousness.

Slit Cow's Tongue

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—Slitting a cow's tongue to break it of the habit of sucking cost William Bear, local dairyman, $25 and costs in police court. Bear's act aroused the ire of the Humane society and the latter organization investigated and filed information against him. The cow's tongue was slit in three places, in the center and down each side.

Kansas City, Kans.—Claude V. Neal, forty, and Mrs. Nancy A. Piersee, forty, obtained a marriage license here the other day. Two weeks ago Neal's son, Joy, and Mrs. Piersee's daughter, Dora, were married. So the wedding bells are all in the family.

No Use for Van

NEW ELEVATOR

Clark Hunsicker Has Modern Building
Complete at Woodlyn.

The new grain elevator of Clark K. Hunsicker, which replaces the one destroyed by fire some months ago, is now open and last week began taking in wheat.

The new structure, built of vitrified tile is a model in construction and is one of the largest and best in this section of the state.

The huge bins, four in number, are built circular in form, similar to a silo and the cleaning and shelling machinery is located in a frame building which stands on top of the four bins. Four huge dumps are built to one side for the speedy handling of grain.

The machinery for handling corn has not all been set, but it will only be a short time until the new plant will be completed. — Williamsport News.
